

A PACIFIC CRIMINOLOGY?

An invitation to exploring what Pacific criminology might be or could be.

Pacific ways of theorising crime, violence, justice, and peace are currently developing in a disconnected manner, hidden currents beneath the visible surface of Northern criminology. This free symposium will offer a space for these disparate currents to surface and converge in productive and energising ways.

We invite abstracts submissions from which a selection will be showcased at the one-day symposium. They will then be considered for publication in a Special Issue of the International Journal of Crime Justice and Social Democracy.
